

CITIES JOIN TO WAGE WAR ON BOLSHEVISM

Philadelphia Delegates Attend Conference in New York Aimed at Radicals

PROMISE HELP TO FLYNN

Philadelphia police authorities have united with the police departments of other big cities in the East to wage a determined fight against bolshevism.

Each police chief submitted whatever data regarding the work of the Bolsheviks their various city detectives had been able to gather and the resulting combination of all the information is said to have given Chief Flynn and the others at the conference a fine foundation on which to base their fight to exterminate the "reds."

Lestrangle Attends In addition to Superintendent Robinson, this city was represented at the conference by Lieutenant of Police Andrew Emanuel, head of the "bombing squad," and Lieutenant of Police Joseph Lestrangle.

The conference was called by Chief of Police Joseph M. Quigley, of Rochester, N. Y., president of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, for the purpose of combining information of the "Reds" and exchanging finger printings, photographs and other means of identification in the event of further bomb outrages on July 4.

Commenting on the semisecret conference of officers, a federal representative said: "Rumors of a serious character have been gathered by government agents during the last few weeks. One of them was to the effect that an outburst of sentiment would take a dangerous form between June 14 and July 14. To date the threat has not materialized. Later information was forthcoming that on July 4 the first of the demonstrations would take place."

"It is regarded likely that sporadic strikes will be one of the first evidences that this plan is being carried out. To cope with undue trouble, to safeguard lives from bombs or other forms of violence, officials of the larger cities are endeavoring to co-operate thoroughly with the government agencies. The meeting was held with that purpose in view."

Mayor Harry Davis, of Cleveland, and Chief Flynn talked at length with the police heads of various cities. Those who attended, in addition to Chief Flynn, Mayor Davis and Chief Quigley, were the following:

Major R. W. Pullman, superintendent of police, Washington; Colonel John J. Garrity, superintendent of police, Chicago; James Robinson, superintendent of police, Philadelphia; Frank Smith, chief of police, Cleveland; W. P. Rutledge, superintendent of police, Detroit; F. N. Mitchell, chief of police, Newton, Mass.; John M. Tracey, chief of police, Paterson, N. J.; John Daly, chief inspector, New York city; John J. Gray, commanding the detective division, New York Police Department; Joseph A. Lestrangle, lieutenant of detectives, Philadelphia; A. J. Emanuel, lieutenant of detectives, Philadelphia; Guy Burlingham, assistant inspector of police, Washington; and James J. Geagan, sergeant-in-charge, bomb squad, New York Police Department.

Promise Aid to Flynn Aside from the following official statement issued at the close of the meeting members of the conference refused to discuss what plans had been made to thwart demonstrations of a dangerous character.

"It was sought to secure greater co-operation between federal investigating agencies and the police departments of the cities of the United States. Chief Flynn was assured of the co-operation of all police departments."

"Chief Flynn told of the proposed federal laws suggested by Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, which are now being considered by Congress. These will, it is expected, solve many of the problems."

BLUECOAT STOPS RUNAWAY Makes Arrest After Hour's Chase. Fireman Suffers Injury After a chase of an hour, Patrolman Charles Gallagher, of the East Girard avenue station, arrested John Greski, thirty-six years old, in a wagon which, it is charged, he loaded with scrap brass and copper at the plant of the Enterprise Foundry Company, Aramingo avenue and Fletcher street. The arrest was made at Berks and Moyer streets.

Gallagher had scarcely time to catch his breath when a horse drawing a light delivery wagon ran past him on East Girard avenue at Venango street. Fireman Thomas McCann, of Engine Company No. 6, attempted to stop the frightened animal, but was thrown under the wheels. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital with injuries to the legs. Gallagher leaped into an automobile and, after a chase of eight blocks, overtook the horse and brought it to a halt. The wagon was smashed.

Long Term for Enticing Minor Oscar Lenox, of Mickle street above Fourth, Camden, was sentenced to jail for not less than two and one-half or more than fifteen years by Judge Kates, of the Camden court, today, charged with enticing fourteen-year-old Emily Middleton to Philadelphia. Lenox was a motorman employed by the Public Service Railway Company of Camden.

CHURCHES DEFEND TERMS IMPOSED UPON GERMANS

Demands Severe but in Harmony With Justice, Is View—Few Pastors Ask Forgiveness for Teutons

The peace terms imposed upon Germany were fully merited by its destruction caused by its soldiers in the civilized world.

This is the prevailing opinion of clergymen of all denominations who discussed the signing of the peace treaty in their sermons. One or two ministers, however, urged forgiveness of the Germans.

"Germany will eventually reach that point where she will again be entitled to the confidence of the world," said the Rev. John Wiley Francis, rector of the Oxford Presbyterian Church, "but that will not be until Germany has shown the proper spirit of repentance. I do not consider the terms too severe. On the other hand, I think that Germany is getting out of it very well."

The Rev. J. Purman Shook, pastor of the Advocate Presbyterian Church of Germantown, said: "I believe that the peace terms are severe, but I believe they are in entire harmony with the demands of justice, for it is only just that Germany should make proper reparation for her crimes."

A somewhat different view was held by the Rev. Dr. Charles E. Macartney, pastor of the Arch Street Presbyterian Church. He said, among other things: "Now, after the storm of man's passion has subsided, the still, small voice of God speaks to the heart of the world. He tells us that the time has come for reconciliation and forgiveness. Germany has sinned deeply, and now has been punished publicly and adequately. The nations which overthrew her and punished her must likewise now help to restore her and bring her back to her better self."

"We still hear voices of hatred and abuse and implacable enmity; but fifty years hence they will seem as absurd as the declarations of eternal enmity and undying hatred made by men on both sides at the close of our civil war seem to a united nation today."

"Give the Germans their chance. Let the epithets begotten of the passion of war, 'Hun and boche,' be dropped from our vocabulary. With new faith in God and man let us help to usher in a new day of brotherhood and justice."

WINS PRIZE; GOES TO U. OF P.

Came to Country Nine Years Ago and Has Made Record in School

Morris H. Goldstein isn't a native American, but he has ideas upon municipal government here that already have won distinction.

Morris, who is eighteen years old, came here from Russia nine years ago. He completed eight grades of study at the Thomas Jefferson School in four and a half years, so that the impediment of foreign birth and tongue was no barrier to his race for American education.

In 1915 he entered Central High School, receiving the eighty-ninth class prize of $10 in general scholarship at the end of his freshman year. Further school honors rewarded his energy and at the annual commencement just held he received the "city government essay" prize.

SOLDIERS' RECORDS MUST BE IN TONIGHT

Philadelphia National Defense Council Secretary Wants All Data About Service Men

INTERESTING STORIES GIVEN

Announcement that today would be the last opportunity for the placing of the records of men in or discharged from military or naval service on permanent file with the Philadelphia Council of National Defense was made this morning by J. Jarden Guenther, executive secretary of that organization.

Numerous remarkable personal and family chronicles have been received in this collection of records which the Philadelphia Council of National Defense is about to terminate. The longest record of service that has yet been placed on file is that of Joseph Chilton, of 1522 Mt. Vernon street, chief gunner's mate, United States navy. He has to his credit a term of service of more than thirty-one years, having enlisted in the navy November 10, 1887 and been retired January 27, 1919.

MAN INJURED ON RAILROAD

Believed to Be Edward Wagnetz. Found Near Laurel Springs

A man thought to be Edward Wagnetz, twenty-eight years old, of Haddon Heights, employed as a brakeman on the Philadelphia and Reading Railway, was found unconscious today near the railroad tracks at Laurel Springs. He was taken to the Cooper Hospital, Camden, where he was found to be suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries.

Another card with the name Edward Wagnetz was found in the man's pocket. It is not known how he was injured.

May 23, 1918, in the United States coast guard, in which he was a member of the crew of the United States ship Itasca. He was discharged June 8, 1919. Samuel Scheero, Jr., enlisted in the navy, April 6, 1917, and served on four different ships. John enlisted in the army, October 15, 1917, and was a member of Company D, 308th Regiment Engineers. After being stationed at Camps Gordon and Meade, he was sent to France. He is at present with the army of occupation. The oldest brother, Peter, enlisted, July 7, 1918, and served with the supply company of the Fifth Pioneer Regiment.

MONOTONY IS VARIED

The monotony of filing the records has been varied at intervals by the humor afforded in the answers given to questions supposed to have been quite plain on the cards issued as a medium for obtaining information.

The question which has apparently been most misunderstood is that having reference to the father's name and the mother's maiden name. One card was recently received bearing an answer the following: James and Mary. Another card read: Frank and Elizabeth.

The returned cards also reveal instances of pathos. One mother sent back her son's card with a letter saying she had not heard from him since March 25, 1919. Her son, Private Charles Jones, was a member of the Quartermaster Corps.
